7B Zoning Map Amendment - Wayne Mauldin, Mauldin Watkins Surveying, PA - 210 S West Street - PIN 0656867994 - REZ-2026-10

Purpose – To consider a requested zoning map amendment for a total of 0.321 acres, located at 210 S West Street, from the Residential Medium Density (RMD) Zoning District to the Town Center Residential (TCR) Zoning District.

Staff Comments – Planning Director Pam Davison submitted the agenda abstract and supporting documents to the Town's official record. She then presented the attached staff report.

Public Hearing – The public hearing was opened. Wayne Mauldin, 139 N. Main Street, spoke in favor of the zoning map amendment. Aymie Feeney, 609 Parker Street spoke in opposition to the zoning map amendment.

Discussion – Commissioner Adcock emphasized that the success of this zoning type is evident in the three-story units located at the corner of Spring Avenue and Vance Street, which he described as significant assets to downtown Fuquay. He stressed that increasing residential density is crucial for maintaining a vibrant downtown; without a sufficient population base, he warned that local businesses could move to major arterial roads. Additionally, Commissioner Adcock highlighted the importance of providing diverse housing options while ensuring that developers are not unduly burdened in an increasingly unaffordable market. Regarding the current proposal, he noted that this type of development utilizes the existing lot for three units without subdivisions, which is precisely what downtown Fuquay needs.

Commissioner Vorren concurred with Commissioner Adcock's assessment, emphasizing that the property is located just two blocks from South Main Street.

Recommendation – Approve REZ-2026-10, a zoning map amendment for 210 S West Street, from the Residential Medium Density (RMD) Zoning District to the Town Center Residential (TCR) Zoning District, as it is reasonable and in the best interest of the public for the reasons identified by management and staff.

Public Hearing – The public hearing was opened. Wayne Mauldin, 139 N. Main Street and Preston Perry, 1994 NC 42 Highway, spoke in favor of the zoning map amendment. The following spoke in opposition to the zoning map amendment.

Tiffany Wagner, 644 Aiken Parkway

Jim Hunsberger, 508 E. Academy Street
Audrey Weiss, 416 Raleigh Street
Laurie Chamberlain, 404 Wade Street

Discussion – Commissioner Vorren noted that the Town Board has received considerable feedback on the TCR zoning. He emphasized that the rapid growth of Fuquay-Varina, with its current population of over 40,000 and an expected 50% increase over the next decade, requires a careful approach. The Town Board must thoughtfully consider both the pace of expansion and the specific location of this neighborhood. Therefore, he requested that the item be tabled to allow for further study and a comparative analysis of how neighboring towns are addressing similar challenges.

Commissioner Haynes reported that, after extensive consultation with the neighborhood, he is committed to conducting a transparent and balanced evaluation of the proposal. He questioned whether there are alternative uses for the property, which Planning Director Davison clarified are limited to single-family homes on reduced setback lots, rather than duplexes, due to density concerns.

Commissioner Haynes noted that, although this request shares some similarities with past TCR zoning issues in the Lincoln Heights area, the transition from two to three lots makes it unique. Recognizing the complexities involved in maintaining community character while treating all constituents fairly, Commissioner Haynes requested to table the item until a comparative study of how other municipalities handle similar zoning requests can be completed.

Commissioner Haynes emphasized the ongoing need for "missing middle" housing, noting that rising property taxes are making it increasingly difficult for seniors and other residents to afford their homes. He highlighted that addressing this affordability gap is a priority for the Town Board. Additionally, he called for further efforts to preserve the historic character of Fuquay-Varina. In response, Commissioner Adcock clarified that while the neighborhood in question is adjacent to the recognized historic district—often referred to as the "historic fringe"—it does not currently have an official historical designation.

Commissioner Smith mentioned that he has toured the neighborhood and met with several residents. He highlighted the importance of evaluating the proposal in relation to existing developments, previous approvals in other communities, and the specific requirements outlined in the Town's Land Use Plan. To make an informed decision, he suggested tabling the request for a limited period to allow staff to conduct comparative research into how similar municipalities address these issues. Finally, Commissioner Smith expressed his support for the proposed plans and for the design of the homes currently being built by Pine State.

Commissioner Adcock praised the residents who voiced their opposition, highlighting their respectful demeanor and their wish for the Town Board to collaborate in finding the best solution for the neighborhood. He recognized Pine State's contributions to Fuquay-Varina's aesthetic and expressed pride in the high-quality buildings made possible by TCR zoning. Commissioner Adcock emphasized that the strength of TCR lies in its flexibility, which allows developers to present a final product to the Town Board for approval. He prefers this approach over the existing standard zoning.

Commissioner Adcock believes that TCR should not be eliminated, but he stressed the importance of taking time to assess how the Town manages TCR in different neighborhoods. He expressed hope that residents and the developer could come to a mutually agreeable compromise and supported postponing the current request for further consideration.

Mayor Pro-Tem Gardner shared her personal connection to the area, mentioning that she lived there for 12 years and recently sold a property in downtown. She expressed her appreciation for the residents' respectful testimony during the public hearing and validated their descriptions of what makes living in the downtown area unique. Additionally, she agreed with her fellow commissioners on the importance of preserving the neighborhood's traditional character and historic charm. Finally, she acknowledged Pine State for its high-quality work throughout the Town of Fuquay-Varina.

Commissioner Haynes invited the public to share their thoughts on the future vision for the area. He noted that the Town Board is actively exploring ways to improve connections between the downtown districts of Fuquay and Varina. He stressed the importance of establishing safer navigation routes between the two communities, specifically proposing alternative paths from the Fuquay side to avoid a direct route down Main Street. Commissioner Haynes highlighted the significant long-term opportunities to enhance pedestrian safety and connectivity toward Ennis Street on the Varina side. He encouraged residents to continue offering feedback on these infrastructure goals, as it will help guide future planning efforts.

Recommendation:

Mayor Pro-Tem Gardner made a motion to postpone the consideration of REZ-2026-11 until the second meeting in September. Mayor Harris inquired about the specific date, to which Town Manager Mitchell replied that it was September 22, 2026. Commissioner Smith seconded the motion. Town Manager Mitchell then asked if the motion included any specific directions for management and staff prior to the Town Board meeting on September 22, 2026.

Commissioner Smith amended the motion to request that management and staff research residential redevelopment and infill development in similarly sized towns in the region, particularly in areas near downtown in addition to tabling consideration of REZ-2026-11 until the September 22, 2026 Town Board meeting. Commissioner Vorren seconded the motion.

Mayor Harris called for motion to approve the amended motion.

7E Zoning Map Amendment - M/I Homes of Raleigh, LLC - 0, 6921, & a portion of 6823 Sunset Lake Road - PINs 0667674582, 0667681140 & a portion of 0667589880 - REZ-2025-18

Purpose – To consider a requested zoning map amendment for a total of 27.63 acres, located at 0, 6921 & a portion of 6823 Sunset Lake Road from the Residential Medium Density Conditional Zoning District (RMD-CZD) to the Planned Unit Development (PUD) Zoning District.

Staff Comments – Planning Director Pam Davison submitted the agenda abstract and supporting documents to the Town's official record. She then presented the attached staff report.

Public Hearing – The public hearing was opened. Juan Montes, 1511 Sunday Drive, Raleigh, spoke in favor of the zoning map amendment. Wendy Douglas, 5005 Hanna Lane spoke in opposition to the zoning map amendment.

Discussion – Commissioner Adcock asked about the potential effects of the historic district designation on the property. Planning Director Davison clarified that this designation does not impose any restrictions, emphasizing that participation in the historic district is voluntary. She also explained that Ballentine Farms, which is part of the district, remains a subdivision without any applicable standards or limitations.

Commissioner Adcock asked about NCDOT project U5751, highlighting that relocating certain residences was necessary to keep them outside the historic district. Planning Director Davison explained that, since participation in the historic district is voluntary, there are no guarantees regarding specific protections or standards for properties within the area.

Commissioner Adcock raised concerns that listing a property on the National Register of Historic Places might limit the Town's ability to make infrastructure improvements, such as upgrading roads. He specifically mentioned a perceived imbalance in the Town's authority, suggesting that it may be more restrictive regarding historic properties during private sales than for other types of properties. Planning Director Davison clarified that, to her knowledge, historic designations are voluntary.

Commissioner Adcock asked whether there is a formal consultation process with the Historic Commission when a building is designated as part of the National Historic District. Planning Director Davison replied that while staff can request feedback, no historic buildings have been identified on this property to date. She gave an example from the Village of Lake Wheeler, where Capital Area Preservation and the State Historic Preservation Office (SHPO) were involved in renovating a historic house and creating a separate lot. Planning Director Davison emphasized that if any significant structures are identified, staff will work with both Capital Area Preservation and the State Historic Preservation Office to ensure their preservation. She also clarified that, since the current development is limited to the southern portion of the property, no existing historical structures are expected to be impacted, as most buildings are located on the northern side, which is not part of the current project.

Commissioner Adcock requested that Capital Area Preservation evaluate the property to identify any significant historical structures. Planning Director Davison responded that the staff would assist with this inquiry. She noted that while the preliminary subdivision plans have already undergone an initial review, the current plan includes removing existing brick and concrete foundations and demolishing several remaining buildings.

In response to Commissioner Adcock's inquiries, Juan Montes stated that a formal report concerning the existing structures has been submitted to SHPO. According to this report, there are no specific historical features on the site that require preservation. Mr. Montes expressed his willingness to coordinate a site visit with the Town's museum board and offered to donate any significant historical materials or artifacts of interest.

Commissioner Adcock asked if the Town had received the report from SHPO. Mr. Montes replied that he would deliver a copy of the report directly to Planning Director Davison.

Commissioner Adcock provided background on the property's history and recommended that Mr. Montes arrange a meeting with representatives from the Fuquay-Varina Museum to ensure that no significant historical features are overlooked. Mr. Montes expressed his willingness to meet with these representatives and clarified that most historic features are located on the northern portion of the property, specifically on Ms. Caroline Elliot's parcel. In response to Commissioner Adcock's inquiry about whether her residence is within the proposed rezoning area, Mr. Montes confirmed that it is not, noting that she is a co-owner and is only selling the barn acreage. Commissioner Adcock reiterated that he does not oppose residential development; however, given the property's designation on the National Register of Historic Places, he emphasized the importance of conducting thorough due diligence to ensure that no historical elements are omitted from the planning process.

Commissioner Adcock highlighted the unique character of Fuquay-Varina, emphasizing that the property's dairy history is a significant part of its distinction. In response, Mr. Montes proposed preserving this heritage by installing a commemorative plaque or another form of historical marker on the property.

Commissioner Adcock asked about the proposed name for the subdivision. Mr. Montes mentioned that while "Galloway Crossing" has been considered, the final choice will be made by his marketing team. In response to a suggestion for a dairy-themed name, Mr. Montes clarified that research indicates dairy operations were not located on this specific part of the property; it was primarily used as a horse barn. He explained that the entrance monument will feature a horse-themed design.

Commissioner Adcock asked about the criteria for the property's inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places. Mr. Montes explained that the designation is based on the property's extensive history, specifically highlighting a barn as a significant contributing feature to its heritage status.

Recommendation – Table zoning map amendment REZ-2025-18 M/I Homes of Raleigh, 0, 6921, and a portion of 6823 Sunset Lake Road, and the PINs stated until September 22, 2026, meeting, and have the Fuquay-Varina Museums give feedback on the historical elements of the property.
